CERTIFICATE.—I have carefully analysed several varieties of white and red diungarian wines, imported by Burchard & Buck, 22 South William street, sole agents for A. Schwartser & Co., Vienna. The samples were taken by my direction from casks which I indiscriminately pointed out from a large quantity in their wise vaults. I flud them to be of excel-

c. c., vienna. The samples were taken by my direction from casks which I indiscriminately pointed out from a large quantity in their wise vaults. I find them to be of excallest quality, and that they have been made from the pure juice of the grape, without any alcoholic or other admixture. These wines can be highly recommended for sacramental, medicinal and other uses of pure grape wine. Ameng the white wines, those of Tokay, Mencel and Russti, will be found to possess the mest tonic qualities; and as the white winesigenerally have diaretic properties, they are best for nephritic complaints, while the red wines being most astringent will be serviceable when such an effect is required. Its gives me pleasure to recommend these pure wines to the public, and I trust that the importers may meet with the encouragement they desire.
